Post-Season Series May Find Aggles' Star Hurler Ineligible to Play.

BUREAU AND MARINES TIE

Technicality Loses Battle For Bureau in Ninth Inning of Exciting Game.

By BRYAN MORSE.

Mike Cantwell, left-hander extraordinary, one of the recognized star pitchers of amateur ranks and now hurling for the Aggies, winners of the Departmental League title, may not get in the post-season series on account of the fact that he has not participated in enough games to make him eligible.

On account of his ability managers have been desirous of obtaining his services. Cantwell has pitched for St. Teresa, Holy Name, Treasury, and the Aggies, and on many independent teams this summer. Larry Eidness, manager of the Aggies, got Cantwell's contract in for the Aggies before July 15 and proceeded to schedule him often enough to make him eligible.

The Departmental League moguls cut down the league dates in order to save expenses and the Aggies were cut out of three games. Had Cantwell worked in part of the three games he would have been able to come through for the have been able to come through for the post season series. In the final series for the title the Aggles came through with three games, winning from Interior. Cantwell, as a pitcher, must have worked in at least four and a half innings of three games or as an outfielder or infielder must have been in tive games, in order to get in the post season games.

He lacks two games now and Manager Eidness wants Interior to come back for the other two games in the series so that Cantwell will be able to work for him in the big games which start August 14.

Eidness brought the matter up at the Amateur Association meeting last night but did not mention Cantwell's name. The association said it was a matter gor the Departmental League to handle. If Interior can be persuaded to come out for the other two games of the five-game series Cantwell will be made eligible. The Aggles can ciaim the remaining games by forfeit by putting a team on the field. This will be somewhat in the nature of making a player eligible through a technicality, but as this seems to be the fashion Cantwell may be brought through in this way.

Records Tremble As Big Meet Approaches

than those representing the Eastern and Middle Western athletes who will meet in the championship athletic games to be held at the Panama-Pacific exposition at San Francisco but was at a standoff. In the nineteen events each excelled in nine, and in one their efforts were equal. What the actual competition at the coast games will bring out is another matter, but it will be conducive of performances of the highest class, and records will probably go clattering down, one after another.

> Honors in the track events are apparently with the West, and this handicap the East overcomes by having men of better caliber, in the field contests. Where the West has shown its superiority is in the 100-yard dash, the 220-yard dash, the quarter-mile, the half-mile, the 220-yard hurdles, the high time the discuss theory the hear step. jump, the discus throw, the hop, step and jump, and the pole vault.

The East has offset these by sterling performances in the mile run, the five-mile run, the 440-yard hurdles, the threemile run, the 440-yard hurdles, the three-mile walk, the broad jump, the hammer throw, the shot put, the javelin throw and throwing the 56-pound weight. In the 120-yard hurdles honors are even.

Each team depends largely on one man, the East on Ted Meredith and the West on Joe Loomis. Based more on his triumphs in the intercollegiate that the same on his performances in the comission of the lot all spring, and unless he shows a reversal of form will probably capture the event, despite the fact that his jump of 6 feet 2 inches is an inch and a half short of the best jump made by Loomis last Saturday. the West has two men who appear to be the superior of Meyer and Howe, the best men the East will produce against them. Loomis is consistent, and his J. J. Alvah Meyer, of the Irish-American Athletic Club of New York, however, bus not run so consistently as Loomis. nor has Irving Howe, the Coloy Col-lege negro lad, and junior national champion in the furiong. Smith is the University of Michigan track cap-tain, a double winner in the sprints at the intercollegiate games, and a consistent performer at even time or consistent performer at even time or better in both sprints.

Mercdith, although his showing in the quarter, was slower by 4-5 of a second than the time made by Dismond, is by far the better man of the two, and should have little difficulty in defeating the Chicago athlete, especially as he will have the able assistence of to to constitue to the constituent of the constituent performer at even time or better in both sprints.

Osborne, who was placed second to Dismond in the Chicago games, is a little out of his class. Dismond's 49 seconds is the best time he has made, while Meredith best that by a full second in the Eastern intercollegiates at the end of May.

McKeown, the Illinois youth, who won the 120-yard hurdles at Chicago, will have to be at his best to beat Martin. The colored hurdler from the Smart Set A. C., of New York. Both did sixteen seconds in their meets. In the furlong hurdles Loomis beat Savage, the Bowdoin College freshman, but a fifth of a second. Worthington, of Dartmouth College, is the most consistent broad jumper in the country today, and his 22 feet 4½ inches gives him a commanding handicap over Stiles, of the University of Wisconsin. Loomis and Alma Richards stand out as real opponents for Wesley Oler and Hary Barwise, the two Eastern high jumpers, Oler has been the better man of the lot all spring, and unless he by Loomis last Saturday. It was one of the hardest contested games seen on the league's diamond this season. Waters pitched a creditable game for the Hamilton Athletic (Jub but failed to receive his usual good support from his team mates. Today, Oxon Hill vs. Hamilton Athletic Club.

It may be that the withdrawal of Hober Baker, of the New York A. C., last year's international haif-mile champion, will cause the Eastern committee to put Meredith in the haif-mile to free Campbell. The Chicago fiver Campbell's half in 1:55 4-5 last week reduced the Central Association record by four seconds, and he will give Meredith a grand battle.

Myers, the De Pauw half-miler, who is now running for the lilinois A. C., was only fifteen yards behind Campbell. Joe Higgins, the Holy Cross College lad, who is slated to run the half for the East, will probably not better his mark of 1:56 3-5, so that the East must have Meredith unless Dave Caldwell, the old Cornell champion, decides to make the trip.

In the mile run everything points to a sweep for the East with Norman Taber, the former Brown student, and Abel Kiviat, of the Irish-American A. C. of New York, showing the way. Taber's 4:15 3-5 on a poor track is one of the high lights of the 1915 season to date, and he should have no trouble in defeating Marceau, the Western record. nounced Ad Wolgast, ex-lightweight champion, the winner in a scheduled ten-round bout here last night with Fauber Yeager, when that boy's rep-resentative at the fight ordered the refere to end the contest during the that Yeager was weak

CULPEPER CLAIMS NEW RING CHAMPION

So Sammy Harris, Astute Manager, Hustles to Look Over Edward Erown.

Having piloted Kid Williams, the Baltimore boxer, to the bantamweight championship of the world, one might imagine that Sam Harris, the diminutive manager, had no other ambition especially as there is no one in sight threatening to snatch the Tiger's crown. But Harris is just full of ambition, and he is about to make a new start, this time with a heavyweight, hoping to time with a heavyweight, hoping to grab the title from Jess Willard.

For several months Harris has been searching for a heavyweight and has openly admitted it. Perhaps he has had dreams of handling a big fellow and grabbing off enormous chunks of the long green since childhood, but it was only a short while ago that he let the cat out of the bag.

Now he has a big man in view. Little Sam does not know much about him, but he intends to learn something very quickly. The immense piece of green timber answers to the name of Edward Brown and hails from Homeland, Culpeper county, Va., which is far from the bright lights of even the town of Culpeper.

DAY TO PLAY GOLF

Unusually Large List For National Amateur Championship.

NEW YORK, Aug 8 .- Although no official announcement has been received from the United States Golf Association headquarters, there is practically no doubt that an extra day will be required to run off the next national amateur championship tournament. In talk with Howard F. Whitney, the U. S. G. A. secretary, last night that official said he believed that the entry would be so heavy as to necessitate starting on a Saturday instead of Monday. That would mean getting under day. That would mean getting under way on August 28.

The championship in question is carded for the links of the Detroit Country Club, and, as is always the case when held in the West, the entry will be unusually heavy. In the event of the executive committee finding it advisable to begin on Saturday, August 28, the entire field on that day will be called upon to take part in an eighteenhole elimination test, when the sixty-four with the best scores will be eligible to start in the qualifying round at thirty-six holes.

While a large proportion of the entrants for the meeting at Detroit are

While a large projection of the entrants for the meeting at Detroit are likely to be received from Western clubs, there is little question concerning a goodly sprinkling from the East. There is already talk of special trains with reduced rates, an arrangement that may also apply for the women's championship scheduled for the following week at Onwentsia.

Expert Believes Art Of Producing Good One-Reel Films Has Vanished

interest-or, at least, a partial reversion-to the one-reel film, and the manufacturers are being urged by the patrons of motion pictures to present more one-reel plays. There is probably a demand for the shorter films among a large class of patrons that would pay an exhibitor to heed. There will always be the big feature, of course; but the big feature, too, is getting shorter. And there seems to be a rather well-defined sentiment among those who patronize the pictures in favor of a good one-reel play along with their big feature-as a sort of chaser or as a relief from the deeper sentiments of the feature.

An interesting experiment is about to be made by the management of one of the local theaters in this direction. The Leader Theater in-tends to devote itself to short features in the future, and to show two or more at each performance. Two and three reclers and sometimes a four-recler will make up the program. This seems to be an excellent plan. The film companies that are making the best pictures nowadays—that is, the regular program compannies—are turning out quite a lot of two and three reel features that are two and three rect features that are much above the average.
At the same time it would seem there is a chance for some exhibitor to turn his house into a one-reel exclusively and to show nothing but the finest of the one-reel films-comedies and dramas. W. Stephen Bush, of the Moving Picture World, believes that the art of making onebelieves that the art of making one-reel pictures is deteriorating, and he would like to see it restored to the place it once occupied. Among other things he writes:

"A concrete example will illustrate just what I mean. The man who created a new school in dramatic kinematography discovering and cleverly utilizing the advantages of the screen was David W. Griffith about seven years ago. He has about seven years ago. He has since specialized in multiple reels, but nothing he has done in the new field has surpassed the unforgettable old Biographs like 'Pippa Passes,' The Baby's Shoe,' 'The Lonely Villa,' and scores of others familiar to oid-time moving picture men. I believe some of these splendid old 'one-reelers' have been re-issued by the Biograph company, and I have the Biograph company, and I have no doubt they were well received by the public. "Is there any reason to suppose that a revival of the single-reel school of art would be welcomed by exhibitors and by the public? Though Griffin was the first and foremost man in this new school, he was by no means the only one.

"The good feature of substantial length he inder ome to destand a fir destined to higher development along the lines of quality, but why should the sincle reel not parallel this quality? There is not a man in the exhibiting businers today whose memory and experience go back seven years who would not gladly trade two or more features for one good, old licensed single reel, as the single reel averaged in those days.

'Is it possible to specialize in both; to make first-class single reels and first-class multiples with practically the same materials and on practically the same materials and on practically the same basis? Here is a large question which has often been discussed pro and con among the exhibiting body of the country. I do not know just what the result would be it a vote were taken, nor can I know whether such a saidt would necessarily be conclusive. In would necessarily be conclusive. In a general way, however, one might say that this is an ave of specialization, and that in the very nature of things it is very hard to the same time."
